

Introduction

Chair of the Finance and Resources Committee

Clare started her professional life as an architect working on projects ranging from Grade “A” restoration to commercial and industrial regeneration schemes. As the construction industry changed Clare added an Executive MBA and corporate professional memberships to her CV in order to contribute to professional construction and regeneration industry standards. In 2004 Clare co-founded the McConnell Gibb Partnership Ltd to provide Construction and Management Consultancy services to both public and private sector enterprises. In this role Clare helps client, contractor and consultancy organisations deliver value for money through design, cost and process management. A firm believer in continued professional and personal development Clare continues to look for opportunities for further learning and is delighted to serve on South Lanarkshire College Board to give back to her chosen industry whilst being at the forefront of educational development.
