

Introduction

Vice Chair of the Board of Management and Chair of the Remuneration Committee

Paul Hutchinson is the Chief Engineer for communications and networks within Atkins, accountable for the engineering teams who provide technical advice on a wide range of technologies. Paul is a communications engineer with over 25 years' experience in telecommunications and ICT. He has led teams in designing and delivering ICT to support military operations and three sporting events in the UK – most recently as the Head of Telecommunications for the Commonwealth Games in Glasgow. Paul is also a commissioned officer with the Royal Signals.

Paul is married to Fran and they have 3 children. Together, they enjoy most sports, socialising with family and friends, and travelling.